

Question

---

Do I have to train field personnel to manage each field installations?

Answer

---

No. With IP access to each machine (and that can be something as simple as a VPN), you point your browser to the desired office and you have full control over its functionality. The central office can grant local personnel full retrieval access privileges, if you so elect.